Oliver Twist

HAD I the heavens' embroidered cloths, Enwrought with golden and silver light, The blue and the dim and the dark cloths Of night and light and the half-light, I would spread the cloths under your feet: But I, being poor, have only my dreams; I have spread my dreams under your feet; Tread softly because you tread on my dreams. In this approach the soul is in the body as if in a prison, all throughout life awaiting the moment of liberation, which coincides with death.

If We Really Know That God is One, Then Its All Love Play
